

McIlvain retires

“She was a person you knew you could call at 10 p.m. on the night of July 4 and she would respond,” Grayson said. He then addressed McIlvain directly and said, “In these last few weeks, there should be no crying, but a lot of hugging.”

Following the vote to accept McIlvain’s retirement, Cynthiana Mayor James Smith expressed his own regret that he had only had a few months to learn from her, given the depth of her experience and knowledge of how a city functions.

McIlvain, normally a very reserved presence on the commission, let her emotions show momentarily then got on with the commission’s business as normal.

Pursuant to her retirement announcement, the commission agreed to advertise internally for the City Clerk position.

City employee concerned about projects

Prior to the retirement announcement, city employee Michael Fuller, who is resigning his position on Friday for another job, came before the commission to express concerns about the way in which the city was managing certain water and public works projects.

Fuller said he had tried to bring these issues to the attention of city officials and commissioners, but was denied access and repeatedly told by the city clerk to “respect the chain of command.”

Fuller held several handwritten sheets of paper that he said outlined several problems he saw with the risky way public works and water projects in Cynthiana were being handled — too many, he said, to present from the commission floor.

Touching on a few issues, Fuller expressed concern over a possible incompatible connection between a 10-inch and 12-inch water line at the intersection of Pleasant and Church streets. He did not think the connection could withstand the water pressure demands on the pipes and posed serious risks to people and property.

He also mentioned a water line beneath the bridge on Apple Lane in Harrison County and the difficulty city fire fighters may experience with some hydrants in the residential areas of Cynthiana.

His primary complaint, though, was that the commissioners were not being adequately informed of bad decisions being made by city supervisors on these projects.

Several former and current city employees were present to offer their support to Fuller and his assertions. Because of regulations regarding special called meetings, this support group could not address the commission directly to vouch for the truth of Fuller’s complaints.

Because the regular city commission meeting was not being held at its legally designated location, the meeting had to be called a “special meeting” and, therefore, had to adhere strictly to its agenda. The meeting was being held in the community room of the Cynthiana-Harrison County Public Library.

Fuller further asserted that any time he tried to voice complaints to city leaders, bureaucratic barriers were constantly being thrown in his path.

“I decided to get on the agenda of this meeting and bring my concerns out in the open to the commission directly,” Fuller said.

Smith did not respond to Fuller’s specific concerns, but he did state that, as mayor, he operates an open door policy for any city employee. City employees should feel free to bring their concerns to the attentions of the mayor or commissioners without fear of reprisal or bureaucratic push-back.

Smith did say, however, that he expected supervisors to be aware that concerns were going to be shared with city leadership. However, nothing should prevent those concerns from being heard, he said.

Mayor outlines “Next 100-days”

Smith opened the commission meeting with a brief summary of commission accomplishments in the first three months of its administration. As the U.S. President makes a State of the Union address and a governor presents a “State of the State,” Smith felt it would be productive to use this 100-day plan of action as his “State of the County” address.

Included among the items Smith cited as early progress were the following:

- Conclusion of the agreement to mover forward with the “Welding Academy”
- Hiring of two new police officer recruits and a continuing effort to bring the police force to full staff.
- Initiation of Commissioner Walter Tapp’s vision of a Community Policing Program.
- Purchase of new vehicles and equipment for the police and city fire departments.
- Growth in Cynthiana’s business district.

Smith also commended city employees for their excellent response to three separate states of emergency involving two record-breaking snowfalls and the 5th worst flood in Cynthiana’s history.

Smith proceeded to outline a list of 14 possible goals for the next commission’s next 100 days. He asked the commissioners to review these ideas and provide feedback on them and the feasibility of achieving some of these ideas in the next three months.

Included among his suggestions:

- Supporting city beautification projects in cooperation with the Cynthiana Main Street Program.
- Reduce empty store fronts on Pike and Main streets by 75 percent, retroactive to January 1, 2015. Included in this suggestion was the idea of designating some historic district streets as one-way.
- Proceed with getting Cynthiana designated a Work-Ready Community.
- Fix and pave the Main Street parking lot across from Joe B. Hall Court.
- Establish a Tourism and Convention Commission.
- Outlined a plan to move forward with development of Flat Run Veteran’s Park.
- Designate a committee to review and propose revisions to every city ordinance and code.

- Set up an advisory board to implement recommendations from the Southern Police Institute to improve the Cynthiana Police Department.
- Revamp the city’s internet web site.
- Propose changing the commission meeting times to the first and third Tuesday of each month to avoid conflicts with Harrison County Fiscal Court meetings.
- Revise the city’s employee evaluation system.
- Establish a strategic planning committee to develop long range development plans for Cynthiana.
- Work with government entities to designate a one-stop location for business and industry to get information and the paperwork to operate in Cynthiana and Harrison County.

Smith also suggested breaking ground on the “Welding Academy,” which was a “low-hanging fruit” item since the Harrison County School Board has already completed the final bureaucratic hurdle for that goal to be achieved.

He concluded his presentation by asking the commissioners to review this proposal, prioritize them and make other suggestions.

“I don’t expect to accomplish all these ideas in the next three months. I’d like to know which among these are practical goals to achieve,” Smith said.

He asked commissioners to have responses prepared by the next regular commission meeting.

In other business, the commission:

- Heard Will Mallard’s complaint about the horrible pothole conditions on Riverside Drive and Whitt Way.
- Signed a proclamation declaring Tuesday, April 14 as Equal Pay Day.
- Approved a proposal from the Cynthiana Main Street program to purchase and plant six Cleveland Select pear trees in designated areas of Main Street.
- Approved the consent to transfer control of the cable franchise to Comcast, which is merging with Time Warner Cable.
- Commissioner Roger Slade announced that the spring brush pickup and wood chipper schedule will run from April 20 - May 1. The service is only for Cynthiana residents, not commercial tree-trimming companies, he said. In addition, he specified the chipper will not take whole trees or tree trunks.

- Slade said replacement of the sidewalks on W. Pleasant Street are nearly completed. However, there are problems with people parking on the sidewalks, which is a violation of an ordinance as well as damaging to the sidewalks. He requested increased enforcement of the ordinance to preserve the sidewalks.
- Approved the bid from Layne Water Resources to provide a main Licking pump for $37,018.
- At the request of Commissioner Walter Tapp, the commission went into executive session to discuss disciplinary action of specific employees. After the session, no action was taken.

Licking Valley Singers welcomes high school group to show

By JOSH SHEPHERD, News Writer
Fans of the Licking Valley Singers (LVS) have a great excuse to catch both of its concert performances of "Pop Songs of the 60s and 70s" over the weekend of April 24.

For the Friday night performance only, LVS will share the stage with the Harrison County High School Singers.

Its a dual performance evening that LVS choir director Karen Bear has wanted to coordinate since the community group got started.

"I'm very excited that members of the high school's singing group have agreed to join us for the concert Friday night. I think it will impress on these young people that public singing is a rewarding endeavor that will last their whole lives," Bear said.

The high school singers' director, Michael Stone, has approached the collaboration with a great deal of enthusiasm, she said.

Stone, a 2010 graduate of Eastern Kentucky University, is an accomplished musician with some exciting ideas about getting the school singers more involved in public performances around Harrison County.

Even more exciting is that the students will perform four songs from the 1980s in A Capella arrangements. It has been a challenge for the students, but from what Bear has heard, the performance will be something quite special for the audience.

In fact, the entire LVS program is something to get excited about, she quickly added.

The Licking Valley Singers will present "Pop Hits of the 60s and 70s." The song list will feature a host of familiar tunes sung in the grand tradition of the growing chorus of Licking Valley Singers.

The Licking Valley Singers will feature their largest assembly yet, about 70 performers, with many new additions to their ensemble.

The turn out for this performance has led to the possibility that future LVS performances will have to be by audition.

"We are starting to outgrow our practice space in the Licking Valley campus and our regular performance space at the Cynthiana Baptist Church," Bear commented. "This is a very good problem for LVS to have."

Announcements about plans for new shows and auditions will come later.

For right now, audiences should get excited for the two new shows coming up on Friday, April 24 starting at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, April 26 at 2:30 p.m.

The Harrison County High School Seniors will only be performing for the Friday night show.

Anticipating that the singer's friends will want to attend and offer their support, the LVS is extending a special offer for students: a $5 admission fee at the door on the night of the performance.

"We want as many students as possible attending this performance," Bear said. "All they have to do is show up that night with five dollars and they'll be admitted."

Regular tickets will be $10 a piece, with children 10 and under admitted free. Advance tickets for regular admission are on sale at J.J. Sweets, Ewalt's Jewelers and Biancke's Restaurant.

Since the high school singers will only be performing Friday night, the Sunday afternoon performance will feature four to five new numbers exclusively for that show, Bear said.

The performances will be additional pop hits and other special performances, including an electrifying piano duet between Dr. Beth Laytart and Bill Probus and a solo performance from Bear.

And that's not everything, Bear said.

KSP to conduct traffic safety checkpoints

(Dry Ridge, KY) – The Kentucky State Police at Dry Ridge will be conducting traffic safety checkpoints throughout the post district. These checkpoints will be set up at designated areas on highways where statistics have shown an elevated number of vehicle crashes.

During the checkpoints officers will be enforcing laws related to Operating a Motor Vehicle While Under the Influence of Drugs or Alcohol, Licensing of Motor Vehicles and Operators, Registration and Insurance Violations, Seat Belt and Child Restraint violations along with Motor Vehicle Equipment Violations.

Traffic safety checkpoint locations include, but are not limited to, in Harrison County:

Georgetown Road (US 62W) at Russell Cave; Georgetown Road at Leesburg Pike; KY 36 1 mile west of Cynthiana; and US 27 at Harrison/Pendleton County Line.

Traffic Safety Checkpoints are a valuable tool used to promote the safety and well being of the public as well as providing police with visibility and interaction with the community.

Checkpoints are utilized throughout the Commonwealth to help promote highway safety. Local police and county agencies may also assist the Kentucky State Police in conducting these Traffic Safety Checkpoints.

All checkpoints will be set up in accordance with state law and in compliance with Kentucky State Police policy and procedure.

place. They took clothes and a couple of electric tool boxes I had stored there, but they left a plumbing box?" Abner commented. "They took a telescope but not the tripod. The trains aren't worth much except to other collectors, and then they took a weight bench. What could someone do with that? There was just no rhyme nor reason to it."

Abner said when he discovered evidence of the burglary, he was less upset about it than he was disgusted and discouraged about the incident.

He has owned the residence for nearly 12 years and used it as a place for private storage without much worry.

"One of the reasons I moved to this area is to be among a community of people that I trusted and could rely on. We're a good community and I'm sorry that some low life dogs have come in and spoiled that," Abner said.

Daniel said that footprints leading from the broken front and back doors indicate that the burglary was committed by a group of individuals.

The deputy declined to expound on other details of the burglary because of the ongoing investigation.

Nothing to do in Harrison County? Seriously?

In my column last week, I left out one major event for the weekend of April 24. The Licking Valley Singers will be presenting their spring concert, “Pop Hits of the 60s and 70s” at the Cynthiana Baptist Church on Pleasant Street.

There will be two shows: Friday night at 7 p.m. and an afternoon show on Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

Tickets are $10 each with kids under 10 admitted free. They’re on sale now at J.J. Sweets, Ewalt’s Jewelers and Biancke’s.

On Friday night, though, there is a deal especially for middle and high school students — $5 at the door

Read the story on page 3 to find out why.

I also have it on good authority that tickets are on sale for the Roh’s Theater Company’s (RTC) production of Romeo and Juliet.

As usual, tickets are available in advance at Biancke’s Restaurant.

You can also buy tickets online. How cool is this!

To the editor:

I was a social worker for a year, a probation and parole officer for about four years and a cop for 21 years.

The poor woman that wrote the letter about her children, the school system and law enforcement has hit a rock wall that was built in 1973.

The wall is the Juvenile Justice Law. The only object of this law is to benefit the juvenile offender. It is based on an obsolete federal model that was scrapped years ago.

This law removed all power from the schools, the cops, and the parents!

Once a kid finds out nothing will happen to him he knows he can do anything he wants. The result is a nation of kids, and later adults that result from no discipline, responsibility, or respect for others.

Look around, you will see this result everywhere in society.

One reason no one is aware of this sorry situation is the juvenile system is secret. It is not covered by media, partly due to secrecy.

One case I had where a kid wrecked the house, the father went to juvenile court and filed charges. He was told he would have to hire the ‘child’ a defense lawyer!

One other thing. Parents think they know their children. They do not. At a very young age kids learn to believe other peer group kids much more than parents.

Children must be taught at a very young age that there are limits and consequences in life. By second grade it is too late.

This is very hard to do if the courts hamstringing parents, schools and cops.

If you want to change this, organize, scream from the roof tops and join others to change the law.

on “Upcoming Events” and there will be a section to buy tickets.

One thing I did not mention in my feature article on the show. You do not need an Elizabethan to American dictionary to enjoy this production of Romeo and Juliet. The majority of the show is a contemporary translation of the language. The poetry of the text is preserved, but no one will be nudging their wife and asking, “What’d he say?”

Josh Shepherd

I don’t think you’re looking hard enough

However, key scenes will be presented as Shakespeare wrote them. But don’t let the age of the language be an excuse not to see the show.

You’ll be cheating yourself if you miss it. I’m just saying....

And while we are on the subject of community events, my remarks last week must have sparked something. I have been inundated with event announcements for the next few weeks in Harrison County.

I’m pretty sure Robin Smiley and I have accounted for the events that have been submitted. Check out the Did You Know section on the front page, the Church News section on page 21 and, of course, the Community Calendar on page 22.

However, just because I think it bears repeating here, I want to encourage people to attend the Champions for a Drug Free Harrison County community meeting at 5:30 p.m. on Monday night — and not just because Judge Barnett’s barbecue will be available for free.

Two representatives from the Kentucky Office of the Attorney General will be special guests to talk about the new heroin legislation the general assembly finally got around to passing on the last day of the short session.

Harrison County law enforcement has been making strides to try and put away some of our unwelcome drug traffickers, but as State Police Det. Mark Burden pointed out in the Champions community meeting last November, “Communities cannot arrest their way out of this problem.”

The state legislation is supposed to free up more state and federal dollars to fund treatment programs.

It also allows health departments to offer needle exchange programs to stem the risk of spreading others diseases. An outbreak of HIV infection in Indiana were linked directly to heroin abuse and the use of dirty needles.

The legislation has its critics. I’ve heard the opinion expressed that the measures are more political than truly helpful. But it has brought national attention to Kentucky for its “cultural shift” from criminalizing drug addiction to getting people help.

Either way, given the persistent problem we still have with addiction in this region, I sincerely hope there’s a good turnout for this meeting Monday night.

Also, Friday night is the annual Relay for Life “Dancing with the Stars” event at the high school stage. The next morning at the Cynthiana Christian Church, its Relay for Life team is hosting a pancake supper.

Don’t come to me complaining that there’s nothing to do in Harrison County. I could fill this entire page with event announcements. The spring is here, there’s plenty going on. I can barely keep up with it all.

A PROSECUTOR’S PERSPECTIVE:

Shedding light on grand jury mystery

First off, I would like to sincerely thank those of you who have contacted me to say that you have been reading and enjoying this article. I appreciate the feedback and hope to hear from more of you.

Michael Laws
Guest Columnist

This week, we will take a closer look at the grand jury which has been the focus of national media scrutiny in recent months.

Before a felony case can be prosecuted in Circuit Court, it must first be presented to the grand jury which evaluates the evidence and determines whether or not there is probable cause to charge a person with a crime. (Laws’ Legal Disclaimer: The grand jury does not decide if a person is guilty of a crime. That is the job of the petit/trial jury. Grand jurors decide if a person will be charged with a crime.)

Part of the mystery of our grand jury system is the legal requirement that all testimony and evidence presented be kept secret. This is probably the aspect of the grand jury that causes the most frustration among the general public.

A perfect example was the recent officer-involved shooting in Ferguson, Missouri.

No one may ask a grand juror what a witness said, what another grand juror said, or how any grand juror voted.

Typically, the only people allowed in the grand jury room while the grand jury is taking testimony are the prosecutor, the grand jurors, and the witness testifying.

In most cases, the only witness that testifies at grand jury is the law enforcement officer that investigated the case. The prosecutor questions the officer about the case and each grand juror is given the opportunity to ask relevant questions.

Neither the defendant nor his attorney is present.

If the defendant wishes to present evidence to the grand jury, he or she must notify the prosecutor’s office in writing. The grand jurors may decide to hear testimony from the defendant, but they are not required to do so.

When all the evidence has been presented, the officer and the prosecutor leave the room and the grand jurors decide whether there is enough evidence to return an indictment.

Only the grand jurors are allowed to be present while the grand jury is deliberating or voting on a case.

At least nine of the twelve members of the grand jury must agree in order to return an indictment. If less than nine grand jurors vote in favor of an indictment, the grand jury issues a “No True Bill” and the case is dismissed.

Grand jurors typically find their participation on grand jury to be interesting. They gain a better understanding of the criminal justice system and have an opportunity to contribute to the fair and impartial enforcement of the law in their community.

Hopefully, this article has helped answer some of your questions about the grand jury process, and I look forward to seeing some of you as grand jurors in the future! Main Street program vows to “clean up this town”

By JOSH SHEPHERD, News Writer
Cynthiana Main Street has vowed to clean up this town and its going to do it with as many community volunteers as it can get.
There are many cost effective ways to impact the quality and attractiveness of the historic district of downtown Cynthiana, said Emily Ammerman, director of the Cynthiana Main Street program.
One proactive measure is for community volunteers to work together for one or two hours to sweep up and pick up from the downtown city streets, she said.
“It doesn’t take much effort to make a huge difference in the way Cynthiana looks,” Ammerman said.

With the guiding idea, Cynthiana Main Street is joining with Bluegrass Greensource’s Main Street Clean Sweep program to introduce five Downtown Clean-Up Days throughout this summer.
The official kick-off of Cynthiana Downtown Clean-Up Days will be on Earth Day, Wednesday, April 22, from 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. Volunteers should gather at the steps of the Harrison County Court House.
Ammerman acknowledges that kicking off Clean-Up Days on a Wednesday during the lunch hour is a bit awkward in the planning, but it seemed appropriate to time the official kick-off with Earth Day.
The remaining four Clean-Up days will be on the following Saturdays, from 10 a.m. - 12 p.m.: May 23; June 27; July 25 and Aug. 15.
Cynthiana Main Street will provide the brooms, trash bags, gloves, safety vests and plenty of cold water to drink. If businesses wanted to help sponsor those days, Ammerman said she would be glad to talk it over.
“A clean downtown just makes a great impression on visitors,” she said.
She thinks back to the volunteers at the Cynthiana Rod Run in late August. Hundreds of people get together and clean up after the visitation of tens of thousands of people.

“There were plenty of people talking about how the Cynthiana Rod Run left downtown looking better than before the event,” Ammerman said.
Those who already know that they’ll volunteer are encouraged to contact Ammerman’s office at 859-234-7165 or by email at cynmainstreet@gmail.com. Those who volunteer in advance will receive a free T-Shirt for the kick-off on Wednesday.
“We would love to have dozens of volunteers to join with local business and property owners for our kick-off on April 22,” Ammerman said.

Cash for Cans
Another cost-effective beautification project Ammerman wants to launch this year is update, and upgrade, the downtown garbage cans throughout downtown Cynthiana.
The former Renaissance project in the 200 block of Main Street featured some beautiful decorative garbage cans and benches, Ammerman said.
“We want to increase the number of cans around downtown and bring more of the type that are also nice-looking as well as helpful,” Ammerman said.

To promote this program, Cynthiana Main Street is instituting a “Cash for Cans” donation program.
Main Street will accept cash donations to add as many new decorative trash cans as possible throughout downtown.
“Think about how few cans are downtown. There’s maybe one or two on the business side of Main Street between Pleasant and Pike Streets,” Ammerman said. “Add one or two more and there’s less excuse for someone to drop their trash on the street.”
It’s the small things, she said, that will add up to a big difference.

Grenier

true anymore. But there will still be plenty of sections where people, and cell phone signals, will be scarce,” she said.
Grenier has embarked on this ambitious journey in part to raise awareness of Lyme disease and to raise money in support of the International Lyme and Associated Diseases Society (ILADS). The society supports Lyme disease research and its appropriate treatment.
But the hike is also a highly personal one for the young scientist whose life and passions were sidelined for months due to a case of Lyme disease that went misdiagnosed for nearly 10 months.
If one can pardon the cliché, the PCT is representative of Grenier’s determination to “get back in the saddle” after Lyme disease knocked her from it.
Grenier discovered a love for trail hiking around 2010 while she was living and working up in New Hampshire. As a researcher and Americorps volunteer stationed in the remote New England wilderness, there was not much to do with her free time except join friends for hiking excursions up and down the White Mountains.
Since getting hooked on trail hiking, she has been an enthusiast ever since. She took several months to travel the length of the Appalachian Trail.
Ironically, she believes it was during a brief section hike in Pennsylvania that she was bitten by the tick that infected her with Lyme disease.
She didn’t realize it at the time. The only thing she knew is that she just started to exhibit a number of generalized symptoms of an illness that wouldn’t go away.

The most prominent side effect was an alarming lack of energy. She suffered from arthritic muscle aches and general body soreness. However, providers were diagnosing other illnesses unrelated to Lyme disease and the treatments were doing no good.
“I didn’t have the textbook symptoms of the disease. I knew I’d been bitten by a tick, but there wasn’t the ‘tell-tale’ red bulls-eye rash that followed,” Grenier said.
She didn’t respond to treatments and her condition grew steadily worse. At her lowest times, Kristin suffered “brain fog” where she became forgetful and erratic in her behavior. She would lose anywhere from 14 - 20 hours of her life at a time.
“I didn’t understand at all what was going on with me,” she said. “I was just scared.”
A fact that she learned after she was correctly diagnosed is that “Lyme is known as the ‘great imitator.’”
According to the ILADS web site, a patient with Lyme might wind up being tested for anything from Lupus to MS to Fibromyalgia. Hundreds of symptoms have been attributed to Lyme disease.
Ticks that carry the disease are mostly deer ticks and incidence rates for Lyme disease are higher in the New England area and around the north central section of the United States around Minnesota and Wisconsin.

But there are risks of contracting the disease in Kentucky and throughout most of the United States, she said.
Grenier’s condition was finally diagnosed in Cynthiana by Dr. Greg Cooper and Crista Crowdy, PA, of Family Care Associates. When tests came back positive for Lyme, she was treated with two months of antibiotic therapy last year and another two months of antibiotics this year.
Thankfully, she has finally begun responding to the treatment. After spending such a long time with the illness, though, Grenier suffers setbacks from time to time.
Even now, she has moments where the bacterial infection asserts itself, Grenier said.
But rather than scaring her from the wilderness, the disease is likely to discover that it has a new enemy in Grenier.
Not only has she planned to return to her love of hiking, but she is using this excursion to gather sponsors and raise money to combat the disease.
She has so far raised over $1,500 in pledges and is open to accept more.
Many of her sponsors are pledging just a penny a mile for an overall contribution of $26.50. But every one of those pennies adds up, she said.
In a touching coda to her travel, Kristin was contacted by a Vermont woman who shared Grenier’s love of wilderness trail hiking. At 30-years-old, the woman contracted Lyme disease and went undiagnosed for 30 years, Grenier said.

When she finally got the treatment she needed, time had got past her. Lyme disease had robbed this woman of something she dearly loved.
If it is at all possible, Grenier said that the woman hopes to join her for the final leg of the journey into Canada.
“I hope that comes to pass,” Grenier said with earnest. “It would be so important.”

Awareness of Lyme disease got a celebrity boost recently from the revelations of pop singer Avril Lavigne, who was recently diagnosed and treated for the disease last year.
That has been a boost to Grenier’s cause and drawn focus to her goal to walk the PCT. She will be keeping regular updates of her progress on Facebook and on her blog: livinghighonlife.com.

She will be glad to accept further pledges of support throughout the summer. While keeping up with her progress, don’t look for Kristin Grenier. Look for her trail name: Rainbow Dash.

expressions between six months to one-year-old.
• No babbling or attempts to form words from a child by their first birthday.
• No back and forth gestures, such as pointing, showing, reaching or wanting by a child at one year.
• No words by 16 - 20 months.
• Any loss of speech or social skills at any age.
Yearsley emphasized that these signs may indicate ASD, but that parents should consult a pediatrician or provider at the health department before drawing conclusions.
The evaluations offered through the special education office at the school can also assist parents.
“We’re getting better about not applying a social stigma to children who have ASD,” he said. “In the vast majority of cases, the disorder does not affect a child’s ability to learn. In many cases, in fact, the children are of average to above average intelligence,” Yearsley said.
It is in social interactions, or in the expression of emotions, where

WHITNEY FOWLER AND BRAD YEARSLEY

ASD can present challenges. But these challenges can be overcome, Yearsley said, and the school has professionals with training to help their child succeed.
“Teachers are trained in education strategies that have been shown to reach children with ASD,” he said. There is a cadre of state support programs that provides special training to educators on strategies to re-teach ASD-affected children, he said.
Yearsley shared an example of the school’s success in addressing the needs of children with ASD.
During the “Light it up Blue” campaign, Yearsley visited classrooms to inform children about autism. A member of the classroom stood up and gave their own show-and-tell story about their experience living with autism.

Many persons with ASD go on to lead normal adult lives, Yearsley said.
In fact, Harrison County has programs to help teenagers with ASD transition to adulthood.
“Working with our education programs, we can arm children with the skills to continue into higher education, if they so choose, and lead rewarding and prosperous adult lives,” Yearsley said.

Fiscal court approves four vehicles for sheriff's department, one for roads

By JOSH SHEPHERD, NEWS WRITER

The Harrison County Fiscal Court approved four of the six trucks that Sheriff Shain Stephens had requested in a previous meeting for use by the deputies in his department.

In a March meeting of the fiscal court, Stephens had presented a proposal to enter into a lease-to-own arrangement for six new trucks for deputies in his department. They would replace six other department vehicles that were in a serious state of deterioration, he said.

The proposal claimed that the Sheriff's department's current budget could handle the expense of such a major fleet exchange without any increase.

After considering his proposal and reviewing the 2015 budget, the fiscal court approved advertising for bids on four Dodge 1500 SSV Crew Cab 4x4s instead of the six in Stephens' proposal.

The court also approved advertising for a bid on a new truck for the Harrison County Road Department, said Harrison County Judge-Executive Alex Barnett. They are hoping to get the same lease-to-own arrangement.

Stephens was pleased with the compromise.

"This is a step in the right direction and I appreciate the county going along with our proposal. We can also look to next year to complete the transition," Stephens said.

The measure also gets the riskier vehicles in the sheriff's fleet off the road, he said.

In other business, the court:

- Heard a presentation from representatives of Brown Ambulance Service about their request for an increase in their county budget line item.

The ambulance service is requesting a $12,247 increase in their monthly subsidy from the county for a total of $30,997 per month.

For the last three years, the ambulance service has received $225,000 per year from Harrison County. The increase would be an estimated $371,973.

Last year, the ambulance service reported a net loss of $37,996 while delivering critical emergency services to the people of Harrison County.

Factors contributing to the losses were increases in expenses and decreases in revenues from Medicare, Medicaid and private insurance.

Brown Ambulance service also had costs associated with the purchase and maintenance of two brand new ambulances.

Barnett and the magistrates acknowledged the excellent service of the ambulance service as well as its need in the county. Emergency medical services are often among the most expensive line items in any county budget, Barnett said.

The court said they would give consideration to the Ambulance service's budget request. However, with extra expenses on the county's plate, Harrison County is struggling to balance its books this year and is trying to find a way to get an estimated $180,000 balanced.

"We are probably looking at making some cuts this year," Barnett said.

- Barnett reported the hiring Bobby G. Nickerson, Brian K. Nickerson, Jacob Fryman and Brandon True as part time employees of Parks and Recreation.

- Approved a resolution to apply for reimbursement of charges associated with the busing of parochial students.

Air temperature and soil moisture

So how do precipitation and temperature effect plants? Well, in every way possible. Excessive precipitation, especially in poorly drained soils, can restrict oxygen intake by roots. Oxygen is vital for all other processes to occur that impact growth and vigor.

In years where we have experienced excessively wet springs we typically see stunting and yellowing in herbaceous plants.

While the rain is great for woody plants and all their new spring growth, it can put them at a disadvantage later in the season.

Jeneen Wiche
Columnist
www.
SwallowRatFarm.
com

Wet springs encourage feeder root development closer to the surface of the soil (where they can get more oxygen), which means that they could be more susceptible to drought stress if the summer turns dry.

All the important plant processes react to temperature, as well: photosynthesis, transpiration, respiration, germination, and flowering.

How temperature affects these processes depends on the plant, of course, some like it hot; some like it cool.

Most of us can make a distinction between cool season crops like spinach, Brussels sprouts and peas and warm-season crops like green beans, cucumbers, corn, peppers and tomatoes.

The origin of these plants has much to do with their physiology. For example, lettuce becomes bitter and begins to bolt as temperatures increase; the same cool temperatures lettuce likes will actually cause tomatoes to experience a chemical reaction that slows photosynthesis during the day and delays the breakdown of starch into sugar at night.

Cool nighttime temperatures for plants that like it hot can cause them to stop growing and arrest root development and flowering.

On the other hand, cool night temperatures may be just what your potatoes need to have the best yield ever.

Researchers in Alberta, Canada, have discovered that potato plants respond positively to cool night temperatures, increasing yield and quality.

At this rate it should be a good potato harvest this summer.

In some instances, low temperatures require less energy use by a plant while an increase in sugar storage occurs. This means that root crops like beets, parsnips and carrots will be sweeter during cooler summers.

So it seems that if you are from a warm place originally you will not respond well to unusually low nighttime temperatures; but if you are from a more temperate climate it is just what you need to be a perfect plant.

This spring will likely remind us what plants among us like it and need it hot.

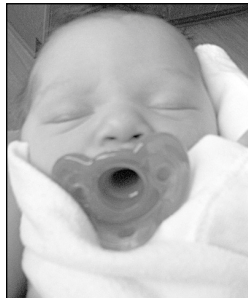

So, what can we do to offset some of the negative effects of a mild wet spring ... hope that you have been working on improving your soil tilth and drainage. Use a chunky mulch that allows good oxygen penetration, wait to plant summer crops until it has warmed and try to create a warmer environment for some things like tomatoes (you can encircle your plants with water-filled milk jugs as a mini heater).

I suppose each season is a balance of sorts ... when it comes to plants some will thrive some will not.

I'll take what I can get either way.

Groundbreaking ceremony held for new BCTC campus in Georgetown

On a beautiful Monday afternoon, ground was broken on a new Bluegrass Community and Technical College (BCTC) campus that will house not only the Advanced Manufacturing Center for high-skills jobs training in Central Kentucky, but will also support higher education in Georgetown and Scott County and the surrounding communities.

Congratulatory remarks were offered during the ceremony by Lt. Gov. Crit Luallen; Dr. Jay Box, President of Kentucky Community and Technical College System (KCTCS); George Lusby, Scott County Judge Executive; Senator Damon Thayer, Senate Majority Floor Leader; Tom Prather, Mayor of Georgetown; State Representatives Ryan Quarles, Tom McKee, and Brian Linder; Wil James, President of Toyota Motor Manufacturing

Kentucky; Annissa Franklin, Chair of Bluegrass Community and Technical College Board of Directors; and Dr. Augusta Julian, President of BCTC.

Partnering with Toyota Motor Manufacturing Kentucky (TMMK) since 1987, BCTC and TMMK developed in 2006 a unique "work and learn" training model called the Advanced Manufacturing Technician (AMT) program to increase the pipeline of skilled workers. Now, 17 companies have joined the Bluegrass Chapter of the Kentucky Federation for Advanced Manufacturing Education (KYFAME) to create a structure that allows companies to innovate, adopt new technologies, and create talent.

The new campus will feature a 78,000 square-foot center expected to serve 1,200 students, with 12 full-time and 20 part-time faculty. Programming will include industrial maintenance, electronics, PLCs, industrial electricity, robotics, mechanical drives, fluid power, machining and welding. The AMT program will support the Bluegrass Economic Advancement Movement (BEAM) goals for making Central Kentucky a premiere advanced-manufacturing area.

Funding for the new BCTC campus was allocated by the Kentucky General Assembly, based on a design funded in 2006 and completed in 2008. A financial investment of $375,000 was made by the Scott County Fiscal Court, with the city of Georgetown assisting in securing funds to construct infrastructure. In 2014, the Governor and Legislature supported funding of a project to expand production at TMMK, and the training

Fort Boonesborough State Park to host ‘Gathering of Descendants’ June 13-14

Fort Boonesborough State Park is planning a special weekend in June dedicated to descendants of the settlers who lived at the fort in the late 1700s.

"A Gathering of Descendants" will be June 13-14 and is open to the public. The park plans to have historical organizations on hand to help guests with genealogical research to see if they had family members at the fort.

"Actual descendants, along with those who think they may be descendants, are invited to visit this weekend and find out more about their families who were at Fort Boonesborough," said

Parks Commissioner Elaine Walker. "This should be a fascinating weekend for anyone interested in Kentucky history."

The park will also have information about some of its earliest residents, contacts for early Kentucky cemetery locations and property records, museum exhibits of artifacts from the original fort site, authors on hand to sign books about the early days of the fort, and historical interpretation of the daily lives, chores, skills, and trades of those who came to Fort Boonesborough.

There will also be hands-on activities planned such as splitting wood, making candles, starting a fire with flint and steel, throwing a tomahawk and surveying land.

"I think this is a huge don't-miss event," said Steven Caudill, a reenactor from Winchester who portrays Daniel Boone and is a descendant of Squire Boone, Daniel Boone's brother. "Anyone interested in frontier history would want their family there."

While Boone is the most famous fort resident, the event is open to the public and any other descendants of families who were there.

"Your family could have an oral tradition of a family connection to Fort Boonesborough," said Bill Farmer, the fort manager. "This could be a place where you could confirm this."

Donna Jones of Lexington plans to attend. She's related to 14 families who were at the fort, including a brother of Daniel Boone.

"Those people who established and lived in that fort did a lot to make my life what it has been, and I owe all of them a huge debt of gratitude and a lot of respect," Jones said.

The event is free with paid admission to the fort.

Howard Fryman, left, with the COOL Insurance Group became a member of the Cynthiana/Harrison County Rotary Club on April 2. Fryman is originally from Cynthiana but had moved to Texas. He has returned and we are excited to have him join the Rotary Club. Howard Fryman is welcomed by Rotary President James Custard.

Education

LVC to host a Fast Start study program this summer

Fast Start is a program designed to allow students, a free one week intensive study in Reading, Writing, and Math if the student has a score on the COMPASS that require them to take developmental classes. At the end of the course, students will retake the COMPASS exam to see if they have now tested out of a subject area.

This workshop will be offered at the Licking Valley Campus this summer Monday through Friday, May 18-22 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Free lunch and a snack will be provided.

Barbara Hauke, MCTC English instructor, will teach the Reading and Writing portions. Brenda Moore, Mathematics instructor, will teach the math portion. Students will receive tips and key points on subject areas. Tutors will also be available.

“This week of intense study is being offered without cost by the college. Retaking the COMPASS test is also free. If students are able to test out of a developmental class, this gives them the opportunity to move into their degree program a lot more quickly,” said Hauke.

The Math portion will be taught in the morning. The Reading and Writing portions will be in the afternoon. Students will only need to come for the subjects where their test scores show improvement is needed. New and returning students are welcome.

To register or for more information, call 859-234-8626 extension 66410 or email martha.muenks@kctcs.edu.

Graduate Dean's Scholars Honored. A reception was held Tuesday, April 7, in the Commonwealth Room of the Adron Doran University Center, Morehead, Ky. to recognize the exemplary academic performance of the Graduate Dean's Scholars. The selection of the Graduate Dean's Scholars is based upon the outstanding academic records of the undergraduate honorees combined with their demonstrated potential to succeed at the graduate level. To qualify as a scholar, the student must be an undergraduate graduating in the spring semester with a minimum 3.8 cumulative GPA. The program began in 2012 and is designed to encourage high performing undergraduate students to continue their academic career with MSU into Graduate School. For more information, contact Susan Maxey, director of the graduate school, at 606-783-2317. Students recognized were: front row, from left, Dr. Steven Ralston, provost and vice president for academic affairs; Terrina Stump, Georgetown; Claudia Castle, Aberdeen, Ohio; Cynthia Moore, Frenchburg; Anna Jones, Flatwoods; Miranda Newland, Greenup; Brittany Gibson, Grethel; and Dr. Michael Henson, associate vice president for research and dean of the graduate school; second row, Andrea Wilhoite, Union; Elaina Calhoun, Prestonsburg; Yen Tran, Vietnam; Makayla Campbell, Cynthiana; Sarah Francis, Pikeville; and Mallorie Gross, Hazard; back row, Brittani Irvine, London; Michael Adbon, Greenup; Mark McClanahan, Catlettsburg; Maci Motley, West Liberty; and Caleb Sullivan, Phelps.

UPIKE entrepreneurs advance to state finals

Two University of Pikeville student teams are advancing to the state finals after winning at the Idea State U regional business plan competition in Hazard, Ky.

Competition included written formal business models and business plans and a 15-minute oral presentation. UPIKE joined Morehead State University, Eastern Kentucky University, Berea College and Union College in the event.

UPIKE students Wesley Barnett of Cynthiana, Molly Frank of Greensburg, Erica Newsome of Pikeville, and Matthew Thacker of Pikeville, earned first place in the business model category and received $1,000. Their team, Rhizofeed, is developing an organic feed additive for the poultry industry made from bloodroot grown in Eastern Kentucky. The product creates benefits beyond what the current solutions of antibiotics and probiotics can offer. Frank and Newsome are biology majors and Barnett is a biology and chemistry major. Thacker is a first-year MBA student.

“It was a wonderful experience to be in such a conducive environment for the fostering of ideas,” said Barnett. “Although it was a competition, the judges were more than willing to give everyone advice on how to make their concept stronger, which affords us the opportunity to possibly do better at the next level.”

Team MTrack Mobile, comprised of second-year MBA students Bill Curry of Delbarton, W.Va., Terri Hunt of Hardy, and Georgene Robertson of Pikeville, earned second place in the business plan category and received $750. The team developed an app and a cloud-based service to provide companies using heavy equipment a digital method to track and document oil usage. The service will first target the coal mining industry and can potentially save companies millions of dollars in environmental fines and equipment damage.

Both UPIKE teams advance to the finals of the Idea State U competition and have the opportunity to win an additional $7,500 in the business model category and $30,000 in the business plan category. The statewide competition will be held April 24-25 in Lexington, Ky. UPIKE is the first private university to participate in Idea State U, which was originally created for Kentucky's eight public universities. This is UPIKE's second year participating in the competition. Idea State U is organized and funded by the Kentucky Innovation Network and the Kentucky Cabinet for Economic Development.

Deadline to register to vote in May 19 Primary Election is April 20

Secretary of State Alison Lundergan Grimes reminds eligible Kentuckians that the deadline to register to vote in the upcoming May 19 Primary Election is Monday, April 20.

County clerks' offices throughout Kentucky will accept voter registration cards until the close of business on that date. Mail-in voter registration applications must be postmarked by April 20.

Grimes also reminds Kentuckians of several important voting laws:

To be eligible to vote, you must:

- Be a U.S. citizen.
- Be a Kentucky resident for at least 28 days before Election day.

- Be at least 18 years old by the date of the next general election.

- Not be a convicted felon, or if convicted of a felony offense, must have obtained a restoration of civil rights.

- Not have been adjudged “mentally incompetent.” and

- Not claim the right to vote anywhere outside Kentucky.

Minors who are 17 years old but will be 18 years old on or before the General Election on Nov. 3, 2015, are eligible to register and vote in the upcoming Primary; however, they are not eligible to vote in special elections until they are 18 years old.

Voters who have recently moved need to update their voter registration information by no later than April 20, 2015. Pursuant to KRS 116.025(6), individuals who move from one county to another county while the voter registration books are open and fail to update their registration information before the voter registration books close are not permitted to vote in the Primary.

Changes in party affiliation for the 2015 Primary Election were due by December 31, 2014. Voters who changed their party affiliation after that date are not eligible to vote in partisan races in the Primary, although they may vote on nonpartisan races on the May Primary ballot. Voters who changed their party affiliation after Dec. 31, 2014, may still vote for their candidate(s) of choice in the November General Election.

Under Grimes' Address Confidentiality Program, victims of domestic violence and sexual assault can register and update their registration while keeping their names and addresses out of publicly available voter records.

“The future of Kentucky depend on all eligible voters participating in the process,” said Grimes. “Registering to vote is the first step in being a part of the 2015 elections, and I hope that as many Kentuckians as are able will make their voices heard.”

You can check your current registration status on the Voter Information Center, <https://cdcbp.ky.gov/VICWeb/index.jsp>. To obtain a registration card or for more information about registering to vote, visit www.elect.ky.gov or contact your county clerk or the State Board of Elections at (502) 573-7100. To learn more about the Address Confidentiality Program, visit www.sos.ky.gov.

Court ruling saves Kentucky public libraries

By Scott Wartman
The Kentucky Enquirer

It doesn't look like libraries in Kentucky will have to close after all.

The Kentucky Court of Appeals in a 3-0 decision handed down on Friday reversed two circuit court decisions in Kenton and Campbell counties that declared the library districts in those counties had improperly raised taxes for decades.

The appeals court found the libraries can raise their tax without having to gather a petition - so long as the amount doesn't bring in four percent more revenue than the year before, just like other taxing districts. It means library budgets won't get slashed and library branches won't get closed as some had feared.

The court case garnered national attention, and library associations across the country rejoiced at the news.

"More than just a vital resource, we know that libraries are vital to democracy in the great state of Kentucky and everywhere," American Library Association President Courtney Young and Public Library Association President Larry Neal said in a joint statement on Friday.

The plaintiffs can appeal to the Kentucky Supreme Court, but library officials feel confident the unanimous decision by the appeals court has put them on firm ground.

"I view this decision as fairly powerful and persuasive," said Jeff Mando, attorney for the libraries of Campbell and Kenton counties. "It was a unanimous, published opinion and a very common sense ruling. It provides stability for the libraries. While the litigation has been pending, there was the potential threat of closures, of closing branches, laying off staff and eliminating programs."

After three years of litigation, the news on Friday came as a big relief for loyal library patrons.

Joan Thamann, of Fort Wright, takes her four children, ages 2 to 9, to Kenton County Public Libraries at least once a week. They're voracious readers and the librarians know them by name.

"I think it's a huge sigh of relief that our libraries are safe and can stay open and continue to offer all the great events, free resources, books for kids and everything else the libraries have to offer," Thamann said.

Lawsuits challenged library boards' authority

The lawsuits, filed by tea party activists three years ago in Kenton and Campbell counties, challenged the authority of library boards to raise property taxes without submitting a petition and putting it on the ballot.

Campbell County Commissioner Charlie Coleman, one of the plaintiffs in the lawsuit in Campbell County, didn't have a comment on Friday. Calls to other plaintiffs and their attorney, Brandon Voelker, were not returned Friday.

The plaintiffs objected to the fact that library board members are appointed, not elected.

Voelker and the plaintiffs have argued that they are not against libraries but wanted more public control over library tax increases.

"It's not about whether you're for or against the library," Voelker told the Enquirer in February. "It's about whether it's unelected boards or the right of the people to determine the tax rate."

If successful, the lawsuit would have rolled library taxes back to their rates in the 1970s and decimated library revenues, likely causing the closure of branches and other cutbacks. It would have affected more than 80 libraries around the state.

The plaintiffs argued 1979 legislation passed by the General Assembly that allowed taxing districts to raise property taxes didn't include libraries created by petition.

This included libraries in Kenton and Campbell counties, as well as more than 80 others around the state.

But these libraries, on advice from the state, followed the 1979 legislation.

Taxing districts can raise property tax rates enough to where it brings in 4 percent more revenue than the previous year. Anything above that is subject to a voter recall and referendum.

The plaintiffs, however, argued that library districts created by petition weren't included under that 1979 legislation and therefore didn't have the authority to raise tax rates on their own.

Circuit court judges in Campbell and Kenton counties agreed.

Library boards 'acted in good faith'

The appeals court, however, didn't see a conflict in the state statutes and believed it was the legislative intent for the 1979 law to apply to libraries.

In its decision, the appeals court noted that upholding the decisions of the lower court would adversely affect at least 80 library districts across the state. The appeals court found that the legal issues regarding taxing authority is best addressed by the General Assembly, not the courts.

"For over 30 years, without protest or challenge, the library districts created by petition have acted in good faith and conducted their affairs in accordance with the directions of the executive branch, which was charged by law to implement the applicable statutes in question," Appeals Court Judge Jeff Taylor wrote in the opinion.

The end of an anxious three years

Barring the Supreme Court overturning the decision, the appeals court ruling marks the end of an anxious three years for libraries across the state.

"There was a lot of tension," said Tom Underwood with the Kentucky Library Association. "Staff didn't know what the future would be. Their morale was challenged."

At one point, Campbell

County Libraries had to consider operating on 1/3 of its current budget, should the tax rate be rolled back to the 1970s level, said J.C. Morgan, executive Director of the Campbell County Libraries.

"I'm so glad we can move on and go forward and keep providing the services people appreciate so much here in Campbell County and across Kentucky," Morgan said.

The decision means the Kenton County Library can once again invest more money into education programs and outreach, said Dave Schroeder, executive director of the Kenton County Public Library.

Kenton County Public Library District held off on investing more in outreach programs that brought books to seniors and day cares and spending more on education programs, said Dave Schroeder. These programs, which range from photography to local history, have increased in attendance by 18 percent this fiscal year compared to last year, Schroeder said.

Now libraries can put the lawsuit behind them, Schroeder said.

"This court ruling says emphatically that board members have been following the law," Schroeder said. "To me, this ruling really re-affirms our board of trustees has been very professional. They take their taxing authority very seriously."

Chamber's Triple Crown road races begin April 25

The Chamber of Commerce announces the upcoming Triple Crown 5K Road Race series again for 2015.

Runners and walkers are encouraged to don their athletic shoes and participate in three entirely different 5K courses.

First leg of the Triple Crown is April 25 at 9 a.m. Runners will meet at the Cynthiana-Harrison County Airport for a gently winding course beside the river and under the canopy of trees. This will be tied in with the Wings & Wheels event that the airport is hosting after the race.

The second leg of the Triple Crown is July 18 at 7:30 p.m. This will be near Northside Elementary School with a cook-out following the race.

The final leg of the Triple Crown is Sept. 12 at 8 a.m. with the usual Born to Run course along the river towards Bullard. It is held in conjunction with The Taste of Harrison County.

Those who pre-register for all three by Friday, April 10, will save $10 and receive a free Triple Crown shirt upon completion of all three races.

For more information, call the Chamber of Commerce at (859) 234-5236.

Home and Garden Show coming on April 25, 26

The Cynthiana Democrat's annual Home and Garden Show is gearing up for its 12th extravaganza. The show is held in partnership with the Burley Co-op and sponsored by Blue Grass Energy and Window World.

The show will be held Saturday, April 25, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Sunday, April 26, from 12 to 4 p.m. at the Burley Co-op Building on U.S. 27 North.

This year's show will feature plants, home improvement, craft and food vendors.

As always, plan to bring a non-perishable food item as a donation to the Harrison County Food Pantry. The canned good will also serve as admission. No canned item? Donate $1 to the cause.

NO BRAKES — The drive-thru branch of the Field and Main Bank on Bridge Street got a brief shock last week. According to a report from Cynthiana Police, a customer was pulling into the parking lot beside the branch when their brakes failed and the car's front went right into the building's side. No one was injured in the incident. The building is slated for demolition later this year to make way for a new Field and Main bank. The accident was just a slight head start in the project.

Land and water conservation a priority for Kentucky farmers on Earth Day and year-round

As the annual Earth Day celebration returns and encourages communities across the country to applaud their local environmental champions, perhaps the search needs not extend further than the nearest family farm. The men and women tending to Kentucky's 77,000 farms are committed to preserving the state's land and water for a healthy return on the seeds they sow and the livestock they raise – for today and generations yet to come.

"Farmers are always on guard to protect the soil and water that is so critical to their livelihood," said Kentucky Farm Bureau (KFB) president Mark Haney. "They very clearly understand that those resources are neither limitless nor inexhaustible."

Kentucky's farmers not only do a great deal to protect the land, but they also strive to make it better. Aside from planting trees and shrubs for windbreaks, preserving and restoring wetland areas, and providing a habitat for many forms of wildlife, many farmers also work diligently to improve the quality of the environment by installing conservation buffers on their farmland. Across the U.S., more than 500,000 farmers have voluntarily enrolled approximately 24 million acres into the nation's Conservation Reserve Program to date, making it the largest public-private partnership for conservation and wildlife habitat in the country.

"Kentucky farmers have embraced this crucial job of safeguarding our land and water," said Haney. "It's a big job that requires close attention, but it's also something that farmers cannot, and will not, overlook."

Today's farmers also embrace advanced methods for managing their land and investing in business services that will help them excel in an environmentally sensitive world. From contour farming and the Kentucky-pioneered no-till farming practices to dead animal composting and complex manure management systems, sound environmental stewardship is a 24/7, year-round job for Kentucky's agricultural producers.

"Nearly every farm organization has also implemented some type of program to encourage cooperative leadership on environmental issues, particularly in regard to water quality," said Haney. "Kentucky Farm Bureau's recently launched Water Management Working Group is one such program that we created to expand the availability of water resources to the state's farmers and our rural and urban communities."

Kentucky has been hit hard by drought in six of the past 15 years, three of which were widespread producers of significant crop and farmland damage. As a very small percentage of Kentucky's cropland is irrigated, water remains a looming critical issue for Kentucky farmers as they seek to feed a growing world population.

To address those conditions, KFB's 20-member Water Management Working Group is currently focused on three main objectives: (1) research the status of water supplies in the state; (2) examine potential action to raise the availability of water to farms; and (3) make recommendations to the appropriate federal, state and private entities. More information about KFB's Water Management Working Group is available at: kyfb.com/water.

"If Americans really want our nation to 'go green' on Earth Day," concluded Haney, "then we should all support the world's original green industry: agriculture."

Slucher's grand slam propels Breds to 10-1 win Monday in Carlisle

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, Sports Writer

The Harrison County Thorobreds improved to 12-1 for the season with a 10-1 win over Nicholas County (4-6) Monday in Carlisle.

The home-standing Bluejackets, who have only played a couple of times in the last weeks due to rain, showed some rust as they committed five errors in the contest.

Gus Garrison and Spencer Free combined to hold Nicholas County to three hits with one batter reaching first on a walk and two on errors at third base. The duo combined for 13 strikeouts.

During a stretch of the third, fourth and one batter into the fifth, Garrison struck out seven consecutive batters.

Nicholas County took an early 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning when Aschten Saunders singled in Devin Trussell. This was to be the only run for the Bluejackets.

The Thorobreds tied the game in the second on Conner Free's home run with one out. The Breds scored an unearned run in the third and another in the fourth to take the lead.

Also in the fourth, Luke Slucher singled and advanced to second on an error by the pitcher. Brandon Case followed with a single up the middle to advance Slucher to third and the sophomore scored on Garrison's ground out to first.

Harrison County broke the game open in the fifth when Sam Hamilton, who was the fourth pitcher of the day for Nicholas County, walked two batters and hit another to load the bases with two outs.

Slucher smashed a ball down the right field line and over the fence for a grand slam home run to make the score 7-1 after five innings.

The Thorobreds scored another run in the sixth and two in the seventh for the final 10-1 verdict.

Slucher had three hits and scored three times to lead the charge. The Thorobreds' next game is scheduled for Wednesday when they host Paris on the Hilltop at 5 p.m.

Harrison County is also home for games Thursday with Louisville Eastern and Friday with Fleming County.

Fillies win two of three in Vernon Bibb Memorial Tournament

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, Sports Writer

The Harrison County Fillies had one bad inning which resulted in a loss to Shelby County in the opening game of the Vernon Bibb Memorial Classic held on Shirley Field this past weekend.

When the Fillies have a bad inning they go all out. For a good example, witness the first inning of their match up with the Lady Rockets.

Harrison County was down 5-0 in the top of the first before they got an out. The girls gave up 11 runs in the first inning.

Shelby County got five straight hits to start the ball game. After a sacrifice fly scored the fifth run, the fillies managed a hit batsman, an error and another hit bats man to pave the way for two more base hits and three more runs.

Then a ground out for the second out was followed by catcher Elizabeth Ivers second double of the inning, scoring two more before the Fillies finally got the last out of the inning.

In all the first inning saw eight Shelby County hits, two hit batters, and two Harrison County errors. Ivers, the eighth grade catcher, had two doubles and four RBI's in the inning.

The Fillies hardly threatened in the game. Only Bailey Conley, who led off the bottom of the first with a double, advanced as far as third base.

In all Harrison County picked up only four hits as they lost 13-0. The win improved Shelby County to 6-5 while the Fillies fell to 5-4.

to sit the visitors down without a run.

The Fillies got to freshman starter Katie Brewer for six runs on six hits in the first inning.

Conley reached on an error at first to open the bottom half of the first and Rachel King, Macy Martin, and Courtney Newsom followed with singles scoring Conley.

Shelby Ishmael forced King at the plate for the inning's first out and Madison Coppage grounded to short scoring Martin to make the score 2-0.

Davis singled, scoring Newsom and Ishmael to make the score 4-0 with two out.

Senior first baseman Haley Powers then hit a home run over the right center field fence for two more runs to make it 6-0 after one inning was complete.

Fillies romp past Robertson County 21-0, 19-0 Monday

The Harrison County Fillies played six innings Monday night and won two games over Robertson County. The 21-0 and 19-0 wins improved Harrison County's record to 10-4 while Robertson County fell to 0-5 for the season.

Coach Christine Garnett used 12 players in the first game and even more in the second as the Fillies gained experience against the overmatched Lady Devils. The games were each a total mismatch thus the one sided scores. In the first game, for example, the Fillies had 15 hits in three innings while Robertson County did not have a hit.

The Fillies are scheduled to travel to Lexington Thursday night to play Henry Clay (8-5). Game time is 6 p.m.

Little League fields, when?

Mike Aldridge

Another spring of River Road Park flooding and Flat Run Park with no ball fields is facing us in the star. When are we going to renovate Flat Run so the children of Harrison County and surrounding counties do not have to deal with the flood stricken park by the river?

Health concerns abound with using a facility that has been flooded. I'm sure the Parks and Recreation staff are doing all they can to fumigate and clean the restrooms and concession stand from what was left when the water went down. But there is still the unknown when river water has been left standing in a building. What germs are left behind?

I'm not a doctor or health official. I can't name the diseases that might result from an area not being properly cleaned, but I feel certain that there are some. And there's probably some river-borne bacteria that's hard to clean well enough to prevent infections.

Again, as far as cleaning up, I am sure everyone working there will do the best job that they can, but will that be enough?

It seems a shame that we have had Flat Run Park for several years and still no ball fields with a proper concession area to facilitate three or four fields.

There is speculation that the Handy House has caused some delay in putting in ball parks. Whether that's right or wrong only the magistrates and commissioners know for sure, but again, if it is — why?

We have a walking trail which I understand will soon be lighted, which is great, the Lions' pavilion and some nice playground equipment which individual efforts brought about. But why, after all of this time, is that all we have?

I realize some Harrison County people who don't live in or near Cynthiana don't like tax dollars being spent on recreation located in the city. But I don't understand that thinking since people live where they want and a properly run, well put-together park facility would have something for most people.

There are some projects that are for the "greater good" which every taxpayer won't see the immediate benefit. But, as the term hints, the project is "for the greater good."

We need to get on the ball and start phasing out River Road with all its sanitation issues. The park is difficult to maintain due to its surroundings and the flooding.

We need to get doing something at Flat Run. Then after new ball fields are installed at Flat Run, it will be up to us to keep it looking good and clean.

From the looks of River Road Park in the last few years, I don't like the chances of that happening. But — there is always hope.

Thorobreds pitching carves out 3 more complete game victories

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

Though this past weekend the Harrison County Thorobreds pitching staff fired an unprecedented five straight complete game wins, leading the Breds to an outstanding 11-1 record to start the season.

On Wednesday afternoon, the final game of the undefeated Florida trip saw sophomore Nathan Fryman allow only five hits as the Breds shut down Baker High School 5-3.

Fryman cruised through the Baker lineup for the first five innings, allowing only one hit and no runs. Perhaps tiring a little in the Florida sun, giving up two runs in the sixth and one in the seventh, Fryman also struck out six, walked three and hit one batter.

The Breds picked up eight hits in all led by second baseman Brandon Case. The senior had three hits and was hit by a pitch to reach base each of his four plate appearances. He also scored three of the Breds' five runs.

Harrison County took a 1-0 lead in the top of the third when Case and Noah Mitchell singled and Case scored on Robbie Stroub's single. Harrison County scored two more in the fifth when Case again singled. Mitchell reached base on an error and Stroub doubled the two base runners home.

After Baker had made a game out of it by scoring two runs in the sixth, Harrison County scored two more in the seventh to extend the lead. Again Case singled and Mitchell sacrificed him to second. Stroub reached on a fielder's choice and then stole second, putting runners on second and third with one out. Zach Day struck out for the second out, but Gus Garrison singled driving in two for the insurance runs. The loss left Baker with a 6-13 record in their very tough schedule while Harrison County improved to 9-1.

Thursday's long ride home had the Thorobreds back on the Hilltop to face Bracken County Friday afternoon. The Polar Bears showed up with a 6-2 record and plans to bring the Breds back to earth. Freshman hurler Dillon Arnold had other plans for the Bears as he tossed a four hit shut out as the road weary home team won 4-0.

Harrison County scored all of the runs they would need in the bottom of the first when Mitchell and Stroub picked up one-out singles to put runners on second and third. Conner Free hit a sacrifice fly to center to score Mitchell. Stroub scored on a balk by Bracken County starter junior Johnny Myers. Stroub drove in two more runs in the second with a bases loaded hit and that ended the scoring. Harrison County had runners on in the fourth and sixth innings but never really threatened after the second.

Arnold struck out six and walked two and was never pushed until the top of the seventh. Bracken County put runners on second and third with two outs in the inning but a ground out to second by Myers ended the ball game.

Saturday afternoon's battle between George Rogers Clark (7-5) and Harrison County could very well be a prelude to the 10th Region Tournament. Granted there is a lot of baseball left to play but both teams look to have the potential for a late season run.

Senior Mark Taylor took the hill for the Thorobreds in this contest and got stronger as the game progressed. The Cardinals struck for a run in the first on an opening single and double coupled with a ground out for a 1-0 advantage. This was to be the only run George Rogers Clark would score though they did threaten in the second.

The top of the first saw sophomore first baseman Nathan Fryman become a victim of a truly unsportsmanlike play by Cardinal shortstop Chandler English.

English hit a high fly ball on the infield and as Fryman was stationing himself under the ball lowered his shoulder and ran over the Harrison County fielder. Fryman lay on the field several minutes while being attended to by coaches and was later removed from the game in the fifth inning.

Coach Mac Whitaker protested the lack of action taken by the officials in penalizing this play of which there is no room in baseball.

The Thorobreds tied the game in the bottom of the first on a single by Case, a sacrifice by Gus Garrison and back to back singles by Mitchell and Stroub.

Harrison County took the lead in the third as Mitchell singled with two outs and then stole second base. Stroub walked and Connor Free smashed a ball to left center driving in Mitchell.

The final run of the game was scored in the bottom of the fourth when Spencer Free doubled with two outs on a ball that was close to leaving the ball park in straight away center. Case and Garrison followed with singles to score Free for the final 3-1 Harrison County victory.

The Thorobreds played error free ball behind the senior Taylor as did the Cardinals behind pitcher Alex Back. Harrison County tallied eight base hits while George Rogers Clark managed five but only one after the second inning. Taylor struck out seven and walked none.

The Thorobreds will take their 11-1 record to Carlisle Monday afternoon for a varsity-only encounter with the Bluejackets of Nicholas County.

Fillies

North Bullitt threatened one more time in the third as two runners reached base without benefit of a hit but were left stranded. The Fillies scored one more in the second on an RBI single by Coppage for a comfortable 7-0 lead.

They put the game way in the fourth when Coppage had a two-run double and scored the 10th run on an RBI ground out by Davis.

The loss left North Bullitt with a 4-5 record on the year.

The final game of the Vernon Bibb Memorial was held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday with the Fillies facing Simon Kenton.

Fillies shut out Pioneers

Harrison County won again in a five-inning shut-out, 10-0, but it was much harder than the score indicates.

Jami Davis was on the mound for the Fillies and the Lady Pioneers loaded the bases with one out in the top of the first. A line drive to Davis resulted in an inning-saving double play and Harrison County was up.

The Fillies scored two runs in the bottom of the first with only one hit as Simon Kenton made three errors.

Simon Kenton threatened again in the second when first baseman Tegin Turpin led off with a single followed by a walk, a strike out, and another walk.

Davis rallied and struck out lead off batter Macy Krohman and induced center fielder Haley Reynolds to ground back to her for the third out.

The Fillies scored six times in the third with one out, sending 10 batters to the plate.

Powers, Davis and Conley all had RBI doubles in the inning.

Simon Kenton changed pitchers, bringing in Krohman from second and the 6th grader shut the Fillies down for an inning and a third.

But in the bottom of the fifth Jima Hill led off with a single followed by a single from Davis.

Conley tripled the two across the plate for the final 10-0 verdict.

Harrison County improved to 7-4 while Simon Kenton dropped to 7-7. The Fillies are next scheduled to face Robertson County on Monday in Mt. Olivet.

Spring practice underway on the Hilltop, Spring game April 30

The Harrison County Thorobreds football team, under the direction of new Coach Neil Furnish, will begin spring football this week. The practices will culminate with the Spring Game which will be held Thursday, April 30 at 6 p.m. The game will be held on Lawson Field in Ingles Stadium. There is no admission fee to attend the game. Concessions will be available in the northeast concession stand.

New for this scrimmage will be silent auctions for game jerseys from the coaching eras of Coach Ray Graham and of Coach Mark Carroll.

Chair back seating will also be on sale during the Spring Game. The Athletic Complex features two sections of chair back seating which are reserved for the football games. Details of prices and availability will be presented during the Spring Game. There are five home games in the upcoming season.

Gems tryouts are Thursday, April 16

The Gems All Star Cheerleading tryouts are being held Thursday, April 16 at Westside Elementary School. There are two groups broken down by ages. Ages 4-8 are scheduled between 4:30 and 6 p.m. and ages 9-14 are scheduled between 6-7:30 p.m. Participants can arrive any time between the allotted times to tryout.

Alternative tryouts can also be arranged by calling Samantha Shirley Furnish at 859-954-0284. There is no experience required and all skill levels are accepted.

HARRISON COUNTY SHERIFF'S REPORT TRAFFIC CASES

April 5 -- A non-injury accident occurred on U.S. 27 South about four miles from the city limits. Delmina Adolf was backing up in the middle of a roadway when an oncoming vehicle forced her to accelerate into a mailbox and down the hill.

April 6 -- An injury accident on Ky 36 West seven miles from the city limits occurred when Ricky Crittendon lost control and went across the front yard of a private residence and struck several trees.

April 10 -- A non-injury accident occurred at 6:41 a.m. less than a mile from the city limits on U.S. 62. Iris Warth of Switzer Pike was eastbound on the highway while Opal Webb of Sadieville, Kentucky was backing out of a private driveway. Neither saw each other in time to avoid a collision.

April 10 -- At 2:00 p.m., a non-injury accident occurred on U.S. 62 East less than a mile from Cynthiana. Linda Fain of Ammerman Pikem was backing up in a parking lot and struck a parked car owned by Lauren Cordray.

CASE REPORTS

April 5 -- At 12:22 a.m., Linda Whitaker reported that her dog, Banjo, may have been stolen by two white males driving a 1967 Chevrolet.

April 6 -- At 10:35 a.m., the Harrison County Sheriff's Department intervened in a verbal argument between Sandra and Vernal Shepherd of Davis Lane. The argument was over a misplaced gun. The gun was confiscated by the deputy for release to the proper owner.

April 10 -- At 6 a.m., Gary Adams of Morning Glory Road reported the theft of several hand and power tools from his storage building.

CITATIONS

April 8 -- At 11:40 p.m., Jessica Wilson, 21, was cited on U.S. 62 West for expired tags and no registration receipt. She was also cited for speeding 72/55. This was the second citation she had received in two weeks.

April 9 -- At 1:26 a.m., an arrest warrant was executed against James D. Boggs, 41, of Elm Street on charges of violation of parole, driving without a license, failure to wear a seatbelt, failure to maintain the required insurance, no registration receipt and no registration plates.

April 9 -- At 12:06 a.m., Daniel Earlywine, 52, of Midnight Court was cited on U.S. 62 West for driving with one headlight, rear license not illuminated and failure to notify the state of a change of address.

April 9 -- At 11 a.m., Noble Gabbard, 39, of U.S. 27 North was served summons to face charges of fourth degree assault, second degree wanton endangerment and third degree terroristic threatening.

April 9 -- At 6:33 p.m., a summons was issued to Glen Neace, 39, of Poplar Street to face a charge of receiving stolen property (firearm).

CYNTHIANA POLICE DEPARTMENT Case Reports

March 19 -- At 10:29

p.m., police were called to 105 Newsom where John Nichols appeared to have overdosed. He was given Narcan to reverse the effect of an opiate.

March 20 -- At 4:15 p.m., police were dispatched to 108 Russ Ave. for a dog complaint. Stephanie Perez told police that the dog at 104 Russ Ave. roams unleashed. Police advised Rachel Collins that there was a leash law in Cynthiana. Collins said she would make sure the dog was leashed when outside.

March 20 -- At 5:21 p.m., police were called to 146 Elmarch Ave. where Lea Baker appeared to have overdosed. When police arrived Baker was laying on the kitchen floor with a used syringe, spoon and paper containing a white powder nearby. Baker came to and was responsive.

March 20 -- At 5:38 p.m., police were called to 108 Russ Ave. in reference to a structure fire. David Perry reported that he saw the flames from U.S. 27 North. He went to the residence where he kicked open the door and a dog ran out.

March 20 -- At 10:16 a.m., Ptl. Justin Jett reported that he had sustained two cuts on his right hand while making an arrest on Salvador Rivas.

March 21 -- At 10:29 a.m., police were called to 102 First St. regarding a criminal mischief complaint. It appeared someone had busted out a window on the south side of the building.

March 24 -- At 6:59 p.m., a juvenile girl reported that she had been picked up from school in Bourbon County by a teen she had been texting with. Her mother had given her permission to leave with the teen. Once in Cynthiana, the girl reported that she was punched in the throat and struck in the face.

MASTER COMMISSIONER'S SALE

Pursuant to a Judgment and Order of Sale entered by the Harrison Circuit Court on March 18, 2015 in Civil Action No. 14-CI-00201 styled CitiMortgage, Inc. successor by merger to CitiFinancial Mortgage Company, Inc., Plaintiff, vs. Robert Thompson and Lightstorm Properties LLC, Defendants, the Master Commissioner of the Harrison Circuit Court will sell at public auction to the highest and best bidder at the Harrison County Justice Center, in Cynthiana, Kentucky, on Friday, April 24, 2015 at 10:00 a.m., the following described property:

All of Lot No. 16, Block C, Unit 2, Cedar Brook Subdivision as shown on Amended Record Plat of Cedar Brook Subdivision of record in Plat Book 1, Sheet 103, and subject to all restrictive covenants pertaining to the Cedar Brook Subdivision which are recorded in Deed Book 141, Page 139, as amended in Deed Book 141, Page 261, as amended in Deed Book 142, Page 238, and as amended in Deed Book 143, Page 91.

Being the same property conveyed to Robert Thompson and Betty Thompson, husband and wife, with right of survivorship, from Gerald M. Whalen and Bonnie B. Whalen, husband and wife, by deed dated November 2, 1998 and recorded at Deed Book 227, Page 563, Harrison County Clerk's Office. Betty Thompson died on April 23, 2014.

220 Cedarbrook Circle, Cynthiana, KY 41031

The property is being sold to produce a sum sufficient to satisfy the judgments and liens as follows: (a) The costs of this action, including the Master Commissioner's fee, appraiser's fee and advertising costs; and (b) Judgment for the Plaintiff, CitiMortgage, Inc. successor by merger to CitiFinancial Mortgage Company, Inc., in the principal amount of $68,268.47 and interest in the amount of $3,080.29 through December 13, 2014 plus interest thereafter at the rate of 6.4500% until paid, plus any additional costs expended by Plaintiff to protect or preserve the property until sale date. (c) Real Estate taxes, plus interest and penalties, if any, for taxes assessed for the year 2014 and previous years. (d) Plaintiff's Court costs and attorney fees.

The property shall be sold upon the following terms and conditions: (1) The property shall be sold free and clear of all liens and claims of the parties to this action; (2) The purchaser shall be required to pay the sum of 10% of the purchase price in cash, certified funds or by other immediately verifiable collectable medium of exchange acceptable to the Commissioner, on the day of sale to apply on the purchase price; (3) The balance of the purchase price shall be due and payable within thirty (30) days after the day of sale; (4) The purchaser shall be required to execute a bond with good and sufficient surety thereon as approved by the Commissioner to secure the unpaid portion of the purchase price, the bond to bear interest at the rate of 12% per annum from the day of sale until paid, the bond to have the same force and effect as a judgment and shall remain a lien on the property as additional security until the purchase price is paid in full; (5) In the event that the Plaintiff is the successful purchaser, it shall be entitled to a credit on its judgment against the purchase price and shall only be obligated to pay court costs, the fees and costs of the Master Commissioner, and any real estate taxes payable pursuant to this order, and in that event, no bond shall be required; (6) The purchaser shall have the privilege of paying all or any part of the purchase price or paying the bond before maturity by paying the balance of the principal together with all accrued interest thereon until the date of payment; (7) The purchaser shall obtain possession of the property upon confirmation of the sale by the Court and payment of the purchase price in full; (8) All ad valorem taxes on the property for calendar year 2015 and all subsequent years shall be assumed and paid by the purchaser. All real property taxes due and owing to Harrison County or the City of Cynthiana or City of Berry, if applicable, for 2014 and prior years will be paid from the proceeds of sale. (9) The property shall be sold subject to any assessment for public improvements levied against the property and subject to all rules and regulations enforced by the Cynthiana-Harrison County-Berry Joint Planning and Zoning Commission, all applicable health and safety regulations, all restrictions and easements thereon appearing of record in the Harrison County Court Clerk's Office, governmental laws and regulations affecting the property, and shall be subject to any unrecorded easements, discrepancies or conflicts in boundary lines, shortage in area and encroachments, if any there be, which an accurate and complete survey or an inspection of the property would disclose; (10) The purchaser shall bear the risk of loss on the improvements on the property and the risk of loss shall pass to the purchaser as of the day and time of sale; (11) The property shall be sold with any improvements thereon "as is"; and (12) The property shall be sold subject to such right of redemption as may exist in favor of the United States of America pursuant to 28 USC Section 2410, and the right of redemption of the Defendants.

All bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

The property shall be sold upon the following terms and conditions: (1) The property shall be sold free and clear of all liens and claims of the parties to this action; (2) The purchaser shall be required to pay the sum of 10% of the purchase price in cash, certified funds or by other immediately verifiable collectable medium of exchange acceptable to the Commissioner, on the day of sale to apply on the purchase price; (3) The balance of the purchase price shall be due and payable within thirty (30) days after the day of sale; (4) The purchaser shall be required to execute a bond with good and sufficient surety thereon as approved by the Commissioner to secure the unpaid portion of the purchase price, the bond to bear interest at the rate of 12% per annum from the day of sale until paid, the bond to have the same force and effect as a judgment and shall remain a lien on the property as additional security until the purchase price is paid in full; (5) In the event that the Plaintiff is the successful purchaser, it shall be entitled to a credit on its judgment against the purchase price and shall only be obligated to pay court costs, the fees and costs of the Master Commissioner, and any real estate taxes payable pursuant to this order, and in that event, no bond shall be required; (6) The purchaser shall have the privilege of paying all or any part of the purchase price or paying the bond before maturity by paying the balance of the principal together with all accrued interest thereon until the date of payment; (7) The purchaser shall obtain possession of the property upon confirmation of the sale by the Court and payment of the purchase price in full; (8) All ad valorem taxes on the property for calendar year 2015 and all subsequent years shall be assumed and paid by the purchaser. All real property taxes due and owing to Harrison County or the City of Cynthiana or City of Berry, if applicable, for 2014 and prior years will be paid from the proceeds of sale. (9) The property shall be sold subject to any assessment for public improvements levied against the property and subject to all rules and regulations enforced by the Cynthiana-Harrison County-Berry Joint Planning and Zoning Commission, all applicable health and safety regulations, all restrictions and easements thereon appearing of record in the Harrison County Court Clerk's Office, governmental laws and regulations affecting the property, and shall be subject to any unrecorded easements, discrepancies or conflicts in boundary lines, shortage in area and encroachments, if any there be, which an accurate and complete survey or an inspection of the property would disclose; (10) The purchaser shall bear the risk of loss on the improvements on the property and the risk of loss shall pass to the purchaser as of the day and time of sale; (11) The property shall be sold with any improvements thereon "as is"; and (12) The property shall be sold subject to such right of redemption as may exist in favor of the United States of America pursuant to 28 USC Section 2410, and the right of redemption of the Defendants.

All bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Church JUSTICE - Someone needs to care!

I remember, it was 5 or so years ago when I first heard about the Refuge for Women.

Its an organization that provides safe housing for women who have been trafficked and sexually exploited. It is a shelter so that they can heal and discover that they can have a second chance at life!

Why do I need to care about that?

Is there really a problem?

Didn't these women choose to be prostitutes?

Didn't they choose to be a porn star?

Didn't they choose to strip at the clubs and work for escort agencies?

Boy was I naïve and misinformed!

I had no idea that my life was about ready to be drastically changed and that I would become a passionate advocate to speak out against sexually exploited and trafficked women!

The legal description of a trafficked victim is someone who is forced by fear, drugs or physical abuse to perform sexual services for another person with someone else making money off of the act.

I love the command in Psalm 82:3-4 where God says “Give justice to the poor and orphan; uphold the rights of the oppressed and the destitute. Rescue the poor and helpless; deliver them from the grasp of evil people.” This scripture has challenged me personally.

Often times we think, how can I make a difference? I'm only one person, right?

We need to BE the change we wish to SEE in the world! (Mahatma Gandhi)

Our lives are a reflection of our beliefs!

What do you believe in?

As a parent, it's so hard to hear things like: “Everyone else is wearing these shorts mom,” “Everyone else is doing it,” “You're mean!” “Everyone else listens to that music,” “You're trying to control my life!”

Or how about, “You are ruining my life!”

We need to be the parent.

Stand firm with our children and take the time to explain why we are saying no.

We are not trying to control their lives. We love them. Our job is to protect them and help them set healthy boundaries and discipline them when needed. We need to say “No” when it's something that could cause them harm.

I couldn't believe it when I learned that the average age of women snared into the sex industry is 12 years old.

12 years old!

When I envision a 12-year-old girl, I see a sweet innocent child full of hope for her dreams to come true.

My life has been so blessed to be a part of the Refuge for Women and serve women who come into the program hopeless and broken. God is so good to heal, transform and give us second chances!

“Provide justice for the needy and fatherless; uphold the rights of the oppressed and the destitute.” Psalm 82:3

GRACE NOTES

On most days, I have a terrible memory, but not today.

Today, I can't stop remembering.

Just this morning I remembered teaching my then-toddler, Alison, to pray. At the same time, I was teaching her about “giving money to Jesus.”

One Sunday at church she had put 50 cents of her own money in the offering plate and then misplaced one of her shoes that afternoon, which we hadn't realized until the next morning as we frantically rushed to get out the door for preschool.

After turning the house upside down looking for the missing shoe, I thought to pray. So, Alison and I knelt by my bed and in earnest prayed, “Dear God, you know where Alison's shoe is and we don't. Please show us so we can get to school on time.”

After our “Amen,” Alison peeked under my bed and saw her shoe – with a dollar bill in it.

“Jesus found my shoe and Jesus gave me money just like I gave him!” she said.

I'm remembering that moment of utter surprise that God would do that for us.

I'm remembering the first time my granddaughter came to my church and how she ran toward it saying, “House! God's house!”

I'm remembering the time when money was tight, so tight that when a gallon jug of milk dropped and broke, I cried, and how that same day a woman in our neighborhood called to say her husband who worked at a dairy brought home more milk than they could use -- and would I please take some off their hands?

I'm remembering times when I've felt like a dog's chew toy, beaten and pummeled by the enemy of my soul and how just by whispering the name of Jesus, the enemy fled.

I'm remembering times of being surprised by God's grace, humbled by his mercy, buoyed by his love. I'm remembering years and years and years of prayers unanswered – and then the answer came.

I'm remembering the time my daughter was heading toward danger and I prayed for God to thwart her plans, and he did. I'm remembering a man wearing a yellow T-shirt inscribed with the name “Jesus” on it, standing by her at a rock concert, a man whom I still believe was an angel sent by God to protect her. I'm remembering all the people who prayed when I asked and are still praying for me and my family.

I'm remembering what hope feels like when things look hopeless, what trust feels like when I dare to trust.

I'm remembering years ago meeting a little boy who was a wiz at golf and how he wanted to be a golfing preacher when he grew up, and today, now in his 20's, he is. I'm remembering how God has his hand on his people from before the time they're born and that he never removes it, even during the times it looks as if he has.

I'm remembering how Jesus comes to seek and save the lost. How he leaves the 99 sheep who are safe in their pen and goes to get the one who wandered away and is scared and lonely, crying in the darkness.

I'm remembering a crown of thorns, a splintered cross, a dying Savior and an empty grave.

I'm remembering the day I heard that same Savior call my name, bid me to follow him, and how I went willingly, with all my heart.

I'm remembering his faithfulness to me and to the ones I love. I'm remembering his promises, that he is working all things together for good, that no tears go wasted and that they will one day all be wiped away.

The other day, I had forgotten these things, and a friend reminded me that the ancient Israelites used to collect rocks as memorials, one for each time God did something great for them.

“You have a pile of memorial rocks in your river of God's faithfulness,” he said. “Go stand by the river, look at the rocks and remember.”

So, that's what I did.

On most days, I have a terrible memory. But not today. Today, I'm remembering my great and faithful God.
